Bridging Art & Nature

Why support the Salmon Tree Cycle?

- Create a lasting impact by supporting the installation of a free cultural resource to be enjoyed by generations to come.
- Inspire community pride by honoring our heritage and connecting people to our unique Pacific Northwest sense of place.
- Encourage visitor exploration and patronage to our businesses by making our community stand out.

The Project

The Salmon Tree Cycle is a pair of sculptures that will mark the southern entrance to St. Helens and create a unique landmark for the community. They will be installed on the McNulty Creek Bridge on Highway 30. The ACC is using a variety of fundraising strategies to reach the required $62,000 it will take to fabricate and install the Salmon Tree Cycle sculptures.

The Story

Salmon migrate from freshwater to the ocean, carrying nutrients critical for tree growth. These trees become habitat for a healthy, diverse water system. The sculptures represent this symbiotic relationship and the role it played building the City of St. Helens. The sculptures were designed by the regionally renowned Rhiza a+d collaborative studio based out of North Portland.
